

2010 GCI Keynote Announced

As the Executive Director of CARE (Citizens' Alliance for Responsible Energy), Marita Noon has quickly become known in the energy industry as a powerful voice advocating for the industry and citizens' right to energy that is abundant, available and affordable. Her pro-energy commentaries have been published in newspapers and industry publications from coast-to-coast and online commentary sites world-wide. Her family refers to her as the "Energizer Bunny." Her husband tells people she is the "Ann Coulter of energy." Recently in an airport following an event, an audience member spotted her and said, "Aren't you the watermelon girl?" However you think of Marita after hearing her, you will be "energized" by her powerful presentation.
